

10-1: Next steps and thanks

This is the last video for The Learn, More Study less course. Now I'm going to give a big thanks for you for participating this far. I know that lots of people buy these courses, and they only get part a way through and they get frustrated and they give up. I appreciate you for sticking through and really investing in yourself education. So give yourself a pat on the back for coming this far because you covered a lot of learning strategies and now you're better prepared than most students and most self educator. Now it's time to take action though, if you have it already. Consider picking one or two of this tactics and work on them as 30 day trial to practice and then master it. Because covering these ideas and hearing about them, can be useful but it's ultimately implementing and use them on your studies when you start to see result. So thank you for following these courses and I really appreciate you spending the time to watch this videos and investing yourself. Bye
